Barry Humphreys is Leading the Debate in London about Regulatory Law in the Aviation Industry

London, UK, March 30, 2011: London City Airport in the UK is hosting the Legal Aviation Workshop (LAW) "Regulatory Law in the Aviation Industry" on June 3, 2011.

The Workshop Speakers are Dr. Barry Humphreys, Non-Executive Chairman, British Air Transport Association and formerly Director, External Affairs and Route Development for Virgin Atlantic Airways, and Jamie Baldwin, Lecturer, Writer and Consultant on Air Transportation.

Panagiotis Panagopoulos, CEO and Founder of Aeropodium pointed out that "the successful LAW on Regulatory Law is coming to London and it is a unique opportunity to network with the experts and at the same time, gain an insight into the latest developments in regulatory issues".

Themes to be discussed include a historical background, United States and international regulatory Agencies and trade associations, and the current aviation regulatory climate.

This Legal Aviation Workshop (LAW) is organized by Aeropodium. For more information, please visit the official workshop website: www.aeropodium.com/law/regulatorylaweurope.html
